■ During the last cruise out of Southampton, Capt. R. Kelso received an original oil painting of Reina del Mar from Mrs. Betty Tinsley. It was painted by Mrs. Tinsley's husband.

Just a few of the people who made Reina cruises unique

■ More than 30 crew members of Reina del Mar have been with the ship since she began cruising in 1964. Shown here are some of the long-serving Spanish staff in the catering department.
